

Councillor Craig Keating, City of North Vancouver
President of the BC NDP

Craig Keating is serving his sixth term on City Council, having first been elected in 1999. He has been a leader on Council promoting the vision of the dense, urban, environmentally sustainable, and socially engaged community that the City has become.

Craig received a Ph.D. in History from McMaster University and is currently a professor of History at Langara College in Vancouver. He has also taught at Simon Fraser University and the University of British Columbia.

Craig is the President of the BC NDP having been first elected to the position in 2013. He also volunteers on the board of the Hillman Medical Education Fund which supports community-based health programs in eight developing countries in Africa and Asia.
